The Hornbook Series

“NO series of legal text-books has ever been published comparable with the Hornbook Series for fixing in mind the fundamental principles of the law. The average text-book is of little value as a working tool for the practicing lawyer. The principles of the law can be more easily obtained elsewhere.

This objection has been largely overcome by the Hornbook Series, wherein is concisely stated the leading principles in bold face type.”

Preface.

In setting forth the rules relating to admission to the bar of the United States Courts and the Courts of the several States and Territories, we have given the general requirements, rather than the forms prescribed in applying for examination and admission.

Reference is made in each instance to the publications in which the rules are set forth in full.

In most states pamphlets containing complete rules, forms to be used, etc., may be obtained from the clerk of court or the secretary of the Board of Bar Examiners, and those intending to apply for admission in any state are advised to write for same. The name of the clerk or other officer in each state to whom inquiries for information should be addressed is set forth in this pamphlet.

This edition includes valuable information in regard to the local Reports of each State, and other law books, especially valuable to the lawyer opening a new office.

Recommendations

Of the Committee of the American Bar Association on Standard Rules for Admission to the Bar.

In 1911 the Committee of the American Bar Association on Standard Rules for Admission to the Bar recommended the following provisions respecting uniform requirements for admission to the bar. These recommendations were incorporated without change in the 1912 report of this committee, and are here reprinted verbatim.

A. Examinations for admission to the bar should be conducted in each state by a board appointed by the highest appellate court.

B. A law diploma should not entitle the holder to admission to the bar without examination by this board.

I. The candidate shall on admission be a citizen of the United States.

II. He shall also be a citizen of the state in which he is applying for admission, or prove that it is his intention personally to maintain an office therein for the practice of the law.

III. Character credentials on application for admission shall include the affidavits of three responsible citizens, two of whom shall be members of the bar, and the affidavits shall set forth how long a time, when, and under what circumstances those making the same have known the candidate.

IV. The lawyer on admission shall be designated attorney and counsellor, and not merely attorney.

V. Three years' practice in states having substantially equivalent requirements for admission to the bar shall be sufficient in the case of lawyers from other jurisdictions applying for admission on grounds of comity.

VI. There is no necessity for the insertion in the rules of a reciprocal comity provision; that is, of a proviso prohibiting the admission of lawyers from other states on grounds of comity, unless the state from which the lawyer comes extends similar courtesies to lawyers from the bar of the state in which the candidate is applying for admission.

VII. Students shall be officially registered at the commencement of their course of preparation for the bar, upon report of the state board as to fitness. The board's report shall be based upon its inspection of the candidate's credentials establishing that he has passed the required academic examination. The registration shall be with the clerk of the highest appellate court. A candidate removing from a jurisdiction having similar standards for registration may have the registration transferred. Nunc pro tunc registration may be permitted according to the present New York practice, which allows such registration only when the candidate had the requisite education at the date as of which he desires to be registered, and in a case where there has been no laches on his part.

VIII. No candidate shall be registered as a student at law until he shall have passed the entrance examination to the collegiate department of the State University of the candidate's state or of such college as may be approved by the State Board of Law Examiners, or an examination equivalent thereto conducted by authority of the state.

IX. Proof of moral character shall be required as a prerequisite to registration.

X. Student candidates for admission to the bar, in order to be eligible for the examination for admission shall have studied either in an approved law school or bona fide served a regular clerkship in the office of a practicing attorney during the required period of preparation.

XI. No student candidate shall be eligible for admission to the bar until he shall have devoted four years in preparing for call to the bar, either by the service of a four years' clerkship in an approved law office or three full years in an approved law school, followed by one year of clerkship in an approved law office; provided, however, that the fourth year may be passed in an approved law school in postgraduate work, including procedure and practice.

XII. Candidates for admission shall present themselves prepared for examination in the following subjects: Constitutional law, including the constitutions of the United States and (the candidate's state), equity, the law of real and personal property, evidence, decedents' estates, landlord and tenant, mortgages, contracts, partnership, corporations, crimes, torts, agency, sales, negotiable instruments, domestic relations, common law pleading and practice, federal and state practice, conflict of law, professional ethics, the federal statutes relating to the judiciary and to bankruptcy, and the development in (the candidate's state) of the principles of the law, as exemplified by the decisions of its highest appellate court and by statutory enactments.

XIII. Names of all candidates for admission should be published by the board for three days in succession, at least ten days before the examination, in a newspaper of general circulation throughout the state, and for four weeks in a law periodical, should there be one within the state jurisdiction.

A similar publication should be made of the names of the candidates passed at the examination and at least ten days before the state board's certificates are issued to the candidates.

XIV. From the examination fees received the members of the state board shall receive such compensation as the highest appellate court of the state may from time to time by order direct.

XV. The fee for examination for admission shall be $25, and for passing up registration credentials in the matter of general educational qualifications, $5.

XVI. The State Board shall consist of five members of the bar, no one of whom shall receive student candidates in his office in preparation for call to the bar, or be connected with the faculty or governing body of any law school presenting candidates for admission.

Code of Ethics

Adopted by American Bar Association
Annotated to Cases in Point

1. The Duty of the Lawyer to the Courts.

It is the duty of the lawyer to maintain towards the Courts a respectful attitude, not for the sake of the temporary incumbent of the judicial office, but for the maintenance of its supreme importance. Judges, not being wholly free to defend themselves, are peculiarly entitled to receive the support of the Bar against unjust criticism and clamor. Whenever there is proper ground for serious complaint of a judicial officer, it is the right and duty of the lawyer to submit his grievances to the proper authorities. In such cases, but not otherwise, such charges should be encouraged and the person making them should be protected.

Annot.

Attacking or criticising court as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 59, 60; Dec. Dig. § 43.

Attacking or criticising court as constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dig. §§ 6-10; Dec. Dig. § 6.

Suspension or removal of judge and liability of judge for official acts, see Judges, Cent. Dig. §§ 42-45, 165-180; Dec. Dig. §§ 11, 36, 37.

Remarks and conduct of judge on trial of case in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1520-1535; Dec. Dig. §§ 654-658; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 80-84; Dec. Dig. § 29.

2. The Selection of Judges.

It is the duty of the Bar to endeavor to prevent political considerations from out-weighting judicial fitness in the selection of Judges. It should protest earnestly and actively against the appointment or election of those who are unsuitable for the Bench; and it should strive to have elevated thereto only those willing to forego other employments, whether of a business, political or other character, which may embarrass their free and fair consideration of questions before them for decision. The aspiration of lawyers for judicial position should be governed by an impartial estimate of their ability to add honor to the office and not by a desire for the distinction the position may bring to themselves.

Annot.

Appointment, eligibility, and qualification of judges, see Judges, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-23; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-5.

3. Attempts to Exert Personal Influence on the Court.

Marked attention and unusual hospitality on the part of a lawyer to a Judge, uncalled for by the personal relations of the parties, subject both the Judge and the lawyer to misconstructions of motive and should be avoided. A lawyer should not communicate or argue privately with the Judge as to the merits of a pending cause, and he deserves rebuke and denunciation for any device or attempt to gain from a Judge special personal consideration or favor. A self-respecting independence in the discharge of professional duty, without denial or diminution of the courtesy and respect due the Judge's station, is the only proper foundation for cordial personal and official relations between Bench and Bar.

Annot.

Attempting to influence court as constituting contempt justifying disbarment of attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 60.

4. When Counsel for an Indigent Prisoner.

A lawyer assigned as counsel for an indigent prisoner ought not to ask to be excused for any trivial reason, and should always exert his best efforts in his behalf.

Annot.

Assignment as counsel by the court, and skill and care required of attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 31, 218; Dec. Dig. § 23; Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1500-1505; Dec. Dig. § 641.

5. The Defense or Prosecution of Those Accused of Crime.

It is the right of the lawyer to undertake the defense of a person accused of crime, regardless of his personal opinion as to the guilt of the accused; otherwise innocent persons, victims only of suspicious circumstances, might be denied proper defense. Having undertaken such defense, the lawyer is bound by all fair and honorable means, to present every defense that the law of the land permits, to the end that no person may be deprived of life or liberty, but by due process of law.

The primary duty of a lawyer engaged in public prosecution is not to convict, but to see that justice is done. The suppression of facts or the secreting of witnesses capable of establishing the innocence of the accused is highly reprehensible.

Annot.

Defense of criminal in general, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 31, 218; Dec. Dig. § 23; Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1496-1506; Dec. Dig. § 641.

Misconduct of counsel, ground for new trial, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 2197-2201; Dec. Dig. § 919.

Functions of office and powers and duties of prosecuting attorneys, see District and Prosecuting Attorneys, Cent. Dig. §§ 1, 34-37; Dec. Dig. §§ 1, 8, 9.

6. Adverse Influences and Conflicting Interests.

It is the duty of a lawyer at the time of retainer to disclose to the client all the circumstances of his relations to the parties, and any interest in or connection with the controversy, which might influence the client in the selection of counsel.

It is unprofessional to represent conflicting interests, except by express consent of all concerned given after a full disclosure of the facts. Within the meaning of this canon, a lawyer represents conflicting interests when, in behalf of one client, it is his duty to contend for that which duty to another client requires him to oppose.

The obligation to represent the client with undivided fidelity and not to divulge his secrets or confidences forbids also the subsequent acceptance of retainers or employment from others in matters adversely affecting any interest of the client with respect to which confidence has been reposed.

Annot.

Acting for adverse parties in different capacities or receiving compensation from adverse party, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 27-30, 208, 220, 307; Dec. Dig. §§ 19-22, 113, 130.

7. Professional Colleagues and Conflicts of Opinion.

A client's proffer of assistance of additional counsel should not be regarded as evidence of want of confidence, but the matter should be left to the determination of the client. A lawyer should decline association as colleague if it is objectionable to the original counsel, but if the lawyer first retained is relieved, another may come into the case.

When lawyers jointly associated in a cause cannot agree as to any matter vital to the interest of the client, the conflict of opinion should be frankly stated to him for his final determination. His decision should be accepted unless the nature of the difference makes it impracticable for the lawyer whose judgment has been overruled to co-operate effectively. In this event it is his duty to ask the client to relieve him.

Efforts, direct or indirect, in any way to encroach upon the business of another lawyer, are unworthy of those who should be brethren at the Bar; but, nevertheless, it is the right of any lawyer, without fear or favor, to give proper advice to those seeking relief against unfaithful or neglectful counsel, generally after communication with the lawyer of whom the complaint is made.

Annot.

Change and substitution of attorneys, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 110-131; Dec. Dig. §§ 75, 76.

8. Advising Upon the Merits of a Client's Cause.

A lawyer should endeavor to obtain full knowledge of his client's cause before advising thereon, and he is bound to give a candid opinion of the merits and probable result of pending or contemplated litigation. The miscarriages to which justice is subject, by reason of surprises and disappointments in evidence and witnesses, and through mistakes of juries and errors of Courts, even though only occasional, admonish lawyers to beware of bold and confident assurances to clients, especially where the employment may depend upon such assurance. Whenever the controversy will admit of fair adjustment, the client should be advised to avoid or to end the litigation.

Annot.

Negligence of attorney in advising client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 221, 222; Dec. Dig. § 109.

9. Negotiations With Opposite Party.

A lawyer should not in any way communicate upon the subject of controversy with a party represented by counsel; much less should he undertake to negotiate or compromise the matter with him, but should deal only with his counsel. It is incumbent upon the lawyer most particularly to avoid everything that may tend to mislead a party not represented by counsel, and he should not undertake to advise him as to the law.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities of attorney to adverse parties and third persons, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 38, 39, 61; Dec. Dig. §§ 26, 38.

10. Acquiring Interest in Litigation.

The lawyer should not purchase any interest in the subject-matter of the litigation which he is conducting.

Annot.

Right of attorney to purchase demands for suit, and effect thereof as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 26, 51, 239-263; Dec. Dig. §§ 18, 38, 122-125.

the subsequent acceptance of retainers or employment from others in matters adversely affecting any interest of the client with respect to which confidence has been reposed.

Annot.

Acting for adverse parties in different capacities or receiving compensation from adverse party, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 27-30, 208, 220, 307; Dec. Dig. §§ 19-22, 113, 130.

7. Professional Colleagues and Conflicts of Opinion.

A client's proffer of assistance of additional counsel should not be regarded as evidence of want of confidence, but the matter should be left to the determination of the client. A lawyer should decline association as colleague if it is objectionable to the original counsel, but if the lawyer first retained is relieved, another may come into the case.

When lawyers jointly associated in a cause cannot agree as to any matter vital to the interest of the client, the conflict of opinion should be frankly stated to him for his final determination. His decision should be accepted unless the nature of the difference makes it impracticable for the lawyer whose judgment has been overruled to co-operate effectively. In this event it is his duty to ask the client to relieve him.

Efforts, direct or indirect, in any way to encroach upon the business of another lawyer, are unworthy of those who should be brethren at the Bar; but, nevertheless, it is the right of any lawyer, without fear or favor, to give proper advice to those seeking relief against unfaithful or neglectful counsel, generally after communication with the lawyer of whom the complaint is made.

Annot.

Change and substitution of attorneys, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 110-131; Dec. Dig. §§ 75, 76.

8. Advising Upon the Merits of a Client's Cause.

A lawyer should endeavor to obtain full knowledge of his client's cause before advising thereon, and he is bound to give a candid opinion of the merits and probable result of pending or contemplated litigation. The miscarriages to which justice is subject, by reason of surprises and disappointments in evidence and witnesses, and through mistakes of juries and errors of Courts, even though only occasional, admonish lawyers to beware of bold and confident assurances to clients, especially where the employment may depend upon such assurance. Whenever the controversy will admit of fair adjustment, the client should be advised to avoid or to end the litigation.

Annot.

Negligence of attorney in advising client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 221, 222; Dec. Dig. § 109.

9. Negotiations With Opposite Party.

A lawyer should not in any way communicate upon the subject of controversy with a party represented by counsel; much less should he undertake to negotiate or compromise the matter with him, but should deal only with his counsel. It is incumbent upon the lawyer most particularly to avoid everything that may tend to mislead a party not represented by counsel, and he should not undertake to advise him as to the law.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities of attorney to adverse parties and third persons, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 38, 39, 61; Dec. Dig. §§ 26, 38.

10. Acquiring Interest in Litigation.

The lawyer should not purchase any interest in the subject-matter of the litigation which he is conducting.

Annot.

Right of attorney to purchase demands for suit, and effect thereof as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 26, 51, 239-263; Dec. Dig. §§ 18, 38, 122-125.

Champerous agreements, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 36-44, 47-51; Dec. Dig. § 5 (6, 8).

11. Dealing With Trust Property.

Money of the client or other trust property coming into the possession of the lawyer should be reported promptly, and except with the client's knowledge and consent should not be commingled with his private property or be used by him.

Annot.

Authority of attorney as to disposition of client's money or other property, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 143; Dec. Dig. § 80.

Accounting and payment to client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 232-238; Dec. Dig. §§ 116-121.

12. Fixing the Amount of the Fee.

In fixing fees, lawyers should avoid charges which overestimate their advice and services, as well as those which undervalue them. A client's ability to pay cannot justify a charge in excess of the value of the service, though his poverty may require a less charge, or even none at all. The reasonable requests of brother lawyers, and of their widows and orphans without ample means, should receive special and kindly consideration.

In determining the amount of the fee, it is proper to consider: (1) the time and labor required, the novelty and difficulty of the questions involved and the skill requisite properly to conduct the cause; (2) whether the acceptance of employment in the particular case will preclude the lawyer's appearance for others in cases likely to arise out of the transaction, and in which there is a reasonable expectation that otherwise he would be employed, or will involve the loss of other business while employed in the particular case or antagonisms with other clients; (3) the customary charges of the Bar for similar services; (4) the amount involved in the controversy and the benefits resulting to the client from the services; (5) the contingency or the certainty of the compensation; and (6) the character of the employment, whether casual or for an established and constant client. No one of these considerations in itself is controlling. They are mere guides in ascertaining the real value of the service.

In fixing fees it should never be forgotten that the profession is a branch of the administration of justice and not a mere money-getting trade.

Annot.

Right of attorney to compensation, contracts therefor and value and amount thereof, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 292-350; Dec. Dig. §§ 130-145, 151, 152, 154, 155.

13. Contingent Fees.

Contingent fees, where sanctioned by law, should be under the supervision of the Court, in order that clients may be protected from unjust charges.

Annot.

Validity and effect of agreement for contingent fee, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 351-357; Dec. Dig. §§ 146-150.

Agreement for contingent fee as constituting champerty, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 22-51; Dec. Dig. § 5.

14. Suing a Client for a Fee.

Controversies with clients concerning compensation are to be avoided by the lawyer so far as shall be compatible with his self-respect and with his right to receive reasonable recompense for his services; and lawsuits with clients should be resorted to only to prevent injustice, imposition or fraud.

Annot.

Right of action for fees, defenses and practice, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 358-377; Dec. Dig. §§ 157-169.

15. How Far a Lawyer May Go in Supporting a Client's Cause.

Nothing operates more certainly to create or to foster popular prejudice against lawyers as a class, and to deprive the profession of that full measure of public esteem and confidence which belongs to the proper discharge of its duties than does the false claim, often set up by the unscrupulous in defense of questionable transactions, that it is the duty of the lawyer to do whatever may enable him to succeed in winning his client's cause.

It is improper for a lawyer to assert in argument his personal belief in his client's innocence or in the justice of his cause.

The lawyer owes "entire devotion to the interest of the client, warm zeal in the maintenance and defense of his rights and the exertion of his utmost learning and ability," to the end that nothing be taken or be withheld from him, save by the rules of law, legally applied. No fear of judicial disfavor or public unpopularity should restrain him from the full discharge of his duty. In the judicial forum the client is entitled to the benefit of any and every remedy and defense that is authorized by the law of the land, and he may expect his lawyer to assert every such remedy or defense. But it is steadfastly to be borne in mind that the great trust of the lawyer is to be performed within and not without the bounds of the law. The office of attorney does not permit, much less does it demand of him for any client, violation of law or any manner of fraud or chicane. He must obey his own conscience and not that of his client.

Annot.

Nature of office of attorney and duty to follow client's instructions, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. §§ 21, 220; Dec. Dig. §§ 14, 108.

Argument and conduct of counsel, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1693; Dec. Dig. §§ 699-730; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-316; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133.

16. Restraining Clients from Improprieties.

A lawyer should use his best efforts to restrain and to prevent his clients from doing those things which the lawyer himself ought not to do, particularly with reference to their conduct towards Courts, judicial officers, jurors, witnesses and suitors. If a client persists in such wrong-doing the lawyer should terminate their relation.

Annot.

Termination of relation by withdrawal of attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 121; Dec. Dig. § 76 (1).

17. Ill Feeling and Personalities Between Advocates.

Clients, not lawyers, are the litigants. Whatever may be the ill feeling existing between clients, it should not be allowed to influence counsel in their conduct and demeanor toward each other or toward suitors in the case. All personalities between counsel should be scrupulously avoided. In the trial of a cause it is indecent to allude to the personal history or the personal peculiarities and idiosyncrasies of counsel on the other side. Personal colloquies between counsel which cause delay and promote unseemly wrangling should also be carefully avoided.

Annot.

Conduct toward other attorneys, ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 61; Dec. Dig. § 38.

Use of abusive language and retaliatory statements and remarks by attorneys, see Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 308, 310; Dec. Dig. §§ 126, 129.

18. Treatment of Witnesses and Litigants.

A lawyer should always treat adverse witnesses and suitors with fairness and due consideration, and he should never minister to the malevolence or prejudices of a client in the trial or conduct of a cause. The client cannot be made the keeper of the lawyer's conscience in professional matters. He has no right to demand that his counsel shall abuse the opposite party or indulge in offensive personalities. Improper speech is not excusable on the ground that it is what the client would say if speaking in his own behalf.

Annot.

Duties and liabilities to adverse parties and to third persons, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 38; Dec. Dig. § 26.

Use of abusive language and retaliatory statements or remarks, see Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 308, 310; Dec. Dig. §§ 126, 129.

19. Appearance of Lawyer as Witness for His Client.

When a lawyer is a witness for his client, except as to merely formal matters, such as the attestation or custody of an instrument and the like, he should leave the trial of the case to other counsel. Except when essential to the ends of justice, a lawyer should avoid testifying in Court in behalf of his client.

Annot.

Competency of attorneys as witnesses, see Witnesses, Cent. Dig. §§ 79, 121-123; Dec. Dig. § 67.

20. Newspaper Discussion of Pending Litigation.

Newspaper publications by a lawyer as to pending or anticipated litigation may interfere with a fair trial in the Courts and otherwise prejudice the due administration of justice. Generally they are to be condemned. If the extreme circumstances of a particular case justify a statement to the public, it is unprofessional to make it anonymously. An ex parte reference to the facts should not go beyond quotation from the records and papers on file in the Court; but even in extreme cases it is better to avoid any ex parte statement.

Annot.

Publications relating to pending proceedings as constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dig. §§ 15, 16; Dec. Dig. § 9.

21. Punctuality and Expedition.

It is the duty of the lawyer not only to his client, but also to the Courts and to the public, to be punctual in attendance, and to be concise and direct in the trial and disposition of causes.

Annot.

Absence of counsel as ground for continuance, see Continuance, Cent. Dig. § 51; Dec. Dig. § 20; Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1313, 1320; Dec. Dig. §§ 587, 593.

Absence of counsel as ground for new trial, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. § 2295; Dec. Dig. § 920; New Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 173, 174; Dec. Dig. § 87.

22. Candor and Fairness.

The conduct of the lawyer before the Court and with other lawyers should be characterized by candor and fairness.

It is not candid or fair for the lawyer knowingly to misquote the contents of a paper, the testimony of a witness, the language or the argument of opposing counsel, or the language of a decision or a text-book; or with knowledge of its invalidity, to cite as authority a decision that has been overruled, or a statute that has been repealed; or in argument to assert as a fact that which has not been proved, or in those jurisdictions where a side has the opening and closing arguments to mislead his opponent by concealing or withholding positions in his opening argument upon which his side then intends to rely.

It is unprofessional and dishonorable to deal other than candidly with the facts in taking the statements of witnesses, in drawing affidavits and other documents, and in the presentation of causes.

A lawyer should not offer evidence, which he knows the Court should reject, in order to get the same before the jury by argument for its admissibility, nor should he address to the Judge arguments upon any point not properly calling for determination by him. Neither should he introduce into an argument, addressed to the Court, remarks or statements intended to influence the jury or bystanders.

These and all kindred practices are unprofessional and unworthy of an officer of the law charged, as is the lawyer, with the duty of aiding in the administration of justice.

Annot.

Argument and conduct of counsel in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1693; Dec. Dig. §§ 699-730; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-309; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133.

Conduct constituting contempt, see Contempt, Cent. Dig. § 21; Dec. Dig. § 10.

23. Attitude Toward Jury.

All attempts to curry favor with juries by fawning, flattery or pretended solicitude for their personal comfort are unprofessional. Suggestions of counsel, looking to the comfort or convenience of jurors, and propositions to dispense with argument, should be made to the Court out of the jury's hearing. A lawyer must never converse privately with jurors about the case; and both before and during the trial he should avoid communicating with them, even as to matters foreign to the cause.

Annot.

Argument and conduct of counsel in general, see Criminal Law, Cent. Dig. §§ 1655-1687; Dec. Dig. §§ 699-726; Trial, Cent. Dig. §§ 267-316, 729; Dec. Dig. §§ 106-133, 305.

24. Right of Lawyer to Control the Incidents of the Trial.

As to incidental matters pending the trial, not affecting the merits of the cause, or working substantial prejudice to the rights of the client, such as forcing the opposite lawyer to trial when he is under affliction or bereavement; forcing the trial on a particular day to the injury of the opposite lawyer when no harm will result from a trial at a different time; agreeing to an extension of time for signing a bill of exceptions, cross-interrogatories and the like, the lawyer must be allowed to judge. In such matters no client has a right to demand that his counsel shall be illiberal, or that he do anything therein repugnant to his own sense of honor and propriety.

Annot.

Duty of attorney to follow instructions of client, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 220; Dec. Dig. § 108.

25. Taking Technical Advantage of Opposite Counsel—Agreements With Him.

A lawyer should not ignore known customs or practice of the Bar or of a particular Court, even when the law permits, without giving timely notice to the opposing counsel. As far as possible, important agreements, affecting the rights of clients, should be reduced to writing; but it is dishonorable to avoid performance of an agreement fairly made because it is not reduced to writing, as required by rules of Court.

Annot.

Binding effect of agreements between counsel, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 171.

Validity of oral stipulations, see Stipulations, Cent. Dig. §§ 5-13, 63; Dec. Dig. §§ 6, 19.

26. Professional Advocacy Other Than Before Courts.

A lawyer openly and in his true character may render professional services before legislative or other bodies, regarding proposed legislation and in advocacy of claims before departments of government, upon the same principles of ethics which justify his appearance before the Courts; but it is unprofessional for a lawyer so engaged to conceal his attorneyship, or to employ secret personal solicitations, or to use means other than those addressed to the reason and understanding to influence action.

Annot.

Validity of lobbying contracts, see Contracts, Cent. Dig. §§ 587-589; Dec. Dig. § 126.

27. Advertising, Direct or Indirect.

The most worthy and effective advertisement possible, even for a young lawyer, and especially with his brother lawyers, is the establishment of a well-merited reputation for professional capacity and fidelity to trust. This cannot be forced, but must be the outcome of character and conduct. The publication or circulation of ordinary simple business cards, being a matter of personal taste or local custom, and sometimes of convenience, is not per se improper. But solicitation of business by circulars or advertisements, or by personal communications or interviews, not warranted by personal relations, is unprofessional. It is equally unprofessional to procure business by indirection through touters of any kind, whether allied real estate firms or trust companies advertising to secure the drawing of deeds or wills or offering retainers in exchange for executorships or trusteeships to be influenced by the lawyer. Indirect advertisement for business by furnishing or inspiring newspaper comments concerning causes in which the lawyer has been or is engaged, or concerning the manner of their conduct, the magnitude of the interests involved, the importance of the lawyer's positions, and all other like self-laudation, defy the traditions and lower the tone of our high calling, and are intolerable.

Annot.

Advertising to secure divorces as ground for disbarment, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 51; Dec. Dig. § 38.

28. Stirring up Litigation, Directly or Through Agents.

It is unprofessional for a lawyer to volunteer advice to bring a lawsuit, except in rare cases where ties of blood, relationship or trust make it his duty to do so. Stirring up strife and litigation is not only unprofessional, but it is indictable at common law. It is disreputable to hunt up defects in titles or other causes of action and inform thereof in order to be employed to bring suit, or to breed litigation by seeking out those with claims for personal injuries or those having any other grounds of action in order to secure them as clients, or to employ agents or runners for like purposes, or to pay or reward, directly or indirectly, those who bring or influence the bringing of such cases to his office, or to remunerate policemen, court or prison officials, physicians, hospital attachés or others who may succeed, under the guise of giving disinterested friendly advice, in influencing the criminal, the sick and the injured, the ignorant or others, to seek his professional services. A duty to the public and to the profession devolves upon every member of the Bar, having knowledge of such practices upon the part of any practitioner, immediately to inform thereof to the end that the offender may be disbarred.

Annot.

Barratry in general, see Champerty and Maintenance, Cent. Dig. §§ 1-51; Dec. Dig. §§ 1-6.

29. Upholding the Honor of the Profession.

Lawyers should expose without fear or favor before the proper tribunals corrupt or dishonest conduct in the profession, and should accept without hesitation employment against a member of the Bar who has wronged his client. The counsel upon the trial of a cause in which perjury has been committed owe it to the profession and to the public to bring the matter to the knowledge of the prosecuting authorities. The lawyer should aid in guarding the Bar against the admission to the profession of candidates unfit or unqualified because deficient in either moral character or education. He should strive at all times to uphold the honor and to maintain the dignity of the profession and to improve not only the law but the administration of justice.

Annot.

Right of attorney to institute disbarment proceedings against brother attorney, see Attorney and Client, Cent. Dig. § 67; Dec. Dig. § 51.

30. Justifiable and Unjustifiable Litigations.

The lawyer must decline to conduct a civil cause or to make a defense when convinced that it is intended merely to harass or to injure the opposite party or to work oppression or wrong. But otherwise it is his right, and, having accepted retainer, it becomes his duty to insist upon the judgment of the Court as to the legal merits of his client's claim. His appearance in Court should be deemed equivalent to an assertion on his hon-

cure business by indirection through touters of any kind, whether allied real estate firms or trust companies advertising to secure the drawing of deeds or wills or offering retainers in exchange for executorships or trusteeships to be influenced by the lawyer. Indirect advertisement for business by furnishing or inspiring newspaper comments concerning causes in which the lawyer has been or is engaged, or concerning the manner of their conduct, the magnitude of the interests involved, the importance of the lawyer's positions, and all other like self-laudation, defy the traditions and lower the tone of our high calling, and are intolerable.

31. Responsibility for Litigation.

No lawyer is obliged to act either as adviser or advocate for every person who may wish to become his client. He has the right to decline employment. Every lawyer upon his own responsibility must decide what business he will accept as counsel, what causes he will bring into Court for plaintiffs, what cases he will contest in Court for defendants. The responsibility for advising questionable transactions, for bringing questionable suits, for urging questionable defenses, is the lawyer's responsibility. He cannot escape it by urging as an excuse that he is only following his client's instructions.

32. The Lawyer's Duty in Its Last Analysis.

No client, corporate or individual, however powerful, nor any cause, civil or political, however important, is entitled to receive, nor should any lawyer render, any service or advice involving disloyalty to the law whose ministers we are, or disrespect of the judicial office, which we are bound to uphold, or corruption of any person or persons exercising a public office or private trust, or deception or betrayal of the public. When rendering any such improper service or advice, the lawyer invites and merits stern and just condemnation. Correspondingly, he advances the honor of his profession and the best interests of his client when he renders service or gives advice tending to impress upon the client and his undertaking exact compliance with the strictest principles of moral law. He must also observe and advise his client to observe the statute law, though until a statute shall have been construed and interpreted by competent adjudication, he is free and is entitled to advise as to its validity and as to what he conscientiously believes to be its just meaning and extent. But above all a lawyer will find his highest honor in a deserved reputation for fidelity to private trust and to public duty, as an honest man and as a patriotic and loyal citizen.

RULES

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

(1)*

United States Courts.

Supreme Court.

It shall be requisite to the admission of attorneys or counselors to practice in this court that they shall have been such for three years past in the highest courts of the states to which they respectively belong, and that their private and professional characters shall appear to be fair. The prescribed oath shall be taken.

Circuit Courts of Appeals.

Although the rule of the Circuit Courts of Appeals governing the admission of attorneys, as adopted primarily, provides that, to become eligible, the applicant shall have been admitted to the Supreme Court of the United States, or any District Court of the United States, and shall have taken the prescribed oath, it has since been changed to some extent in several of the circuits. In the Third circuit, the clause requiring avowal of the oath has been annulled, as respects attorneys of the District Court of the Third circuit; in the Fourth circuit, a fee of $5 is required; in the Fifth and Sixth circuits, a fee of $10 is required; in the Sixth circuit, former admission to the highest court in the state of applicant's residence is sufficient; in the Eighth circuit, former admission to the highest court of any state within that circuit is sufficient qualification; and in the Ninth circuit, former admission to a District Court is limited to admission to a District Court of the Ninth circuit, and is enlarged to the extent that former admission in the highest court of any state or territory shall constitute qualification.

C. C. A. Rule and amendments thereto 150 Fed. xxvii, lxi, lxvii, cxi; 202 Fed. vi; 208 Fed. vi.

District Courts.

The rules for admission to these courts vary. Generally attorneys who have been admitted to practice in other United States courts or the highest courts of a state or territory are eligible.

FEDERAL COURT DECISIONS.U. S. Supreme Court.

A complete set of the United States Supreme Court Reports (1790 to 1915) consists of 234 volumes. Everything subsequent to vol. 105 is covered by the Supreme Court Reporter (of the National Reporter System) in a set of 34 volumes. The Supreme Court Reporter makes currently one volume a year, covering all the current decisions filed by the court, and is supplied to subscribers in advance sheets as published; these being displaced at the end of the year by a bound volume which contains everything in the official edition, and is equipped with a table giving the official page references.

There is another edition of the United States Reports, giving vols. 1 to 234 in 58 books.

U. S. Circuit Courts of Appeals.

These courts were established in 1891, and all opinions from the beginning have been reported currently in the Federal Reporter. (See below.) The back volumes of this set, therefore, incorporate all the reported decisions from these nine courts, and the current numbers give the first report of the current decisions.

The decisions are reported separately in the C. C. A. Reports, of which 129 volumes are now completed.

U. S. Commerce Court.

This court was established in 1911, and all opinions from the beginning have been reported in the Federal Reporter. The court was abolished in 1913.

U. S. Circuit and District Courts.

The early decisions of these courts were never systematically reported until they were gathered together for the elaborate reprint known as the Federal Cases. This includes all decisions from the establishment of the courts, 1789 to 1880, including all cases reported in the original Reports or in contemporary journals, etc., and also thousands of cases never before reported. They are arranged alphabetically, show every known citation, and are fully annotated. The set makes 30 books and a digest.

From 1880 the decisions of these courts have been systematically and currently reported in the Federal Reporter, which now (1915) has completed 216 volumes. This is the only publication which reports these important cases systematically, and it is practically the official organ of the courts. The current volumes are supplied to subscribers first in weekly advance sheets, which are afterwards displaced by the bound volumes. This set connects with the Federal Cases, the two series making a complete record of the U. S. Circuit and District Court decisions.

In 1891 the scope of the publication was extended to include the newly-established Circuit Courts of Appeals.

In 1911 the scope of the publication was extended to cover the newly-established Commerce Court.

The Arkansas Reports are partly out of print, and are scarce and rather expensive. The Southwestern Reporter is the only convenient method of obtaining the late decisions of Arkansas. It also covers all decisions for the last 29 years from the Indian Territory, Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, and Texas. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Southwestern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. We will gladly furnish full description and prices on application.

Examination — Regulations — Scope — Fee — Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations are held the first Saturday of each regular term of the court at Boise, and the first day of each regular term at Lewiston and Cœur d'Alene; time being fixed by the court. The candidate shall in open court prepare written answers to the list of questions propounded by the Supreme Court. No information as to the substance of any of the questions asked or the subjects treated in the examination will be given to the applicants before the date set for the examination. A fee of $25 shall be paid to the State Treasurer, receipt for which payment must be presented to the clerk of the Supreme Court before a license will be issued. A fee of $2 shall be paid to the clerk for the license.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

One who has been admitted in the highest court of another state or territory may be admitted in the Supreme Court of this state upon filing with the clerk a certificate from such court, together with an affidavit showing that he is still in good standing. In case he cannot produce his certificate proof of the facts may be shown by his affidavit. The examination may be dispensed with (but not his personal appearance in open court) in case of any person who has been actually engaged in the practice of law as a principal occupation under license or certificate from the highest court of another state or territory for not less than three years immediately preceding, and who is in good standing as such. The law requires the court to satisfy itself, by questioning the applicant under oath and by such other means as it may adopt, that he has been engaged in actual practice as above stated.

IDAHO DECISIONS.

1866 to 1915.

A complete set of Idaho Reports (down to 1915) consists of 26 vols. The Pacific Reporter, 143 vols., contains all Idaho decisions from and including vol. 2 (1881), and all decisions for the last 32 years of Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. Owing to the limited quantity of local precedents, it is necessary to go to other states for case-law authorities, and the Pacific is usually regarded as indispensable.

The Idaho Code was adapted from that of California, and the decisions of that state are therefore followed closely by the Idaho courts. The Pacific Reporter contains nearly 75 per cent. of all the decisions as reported in the California Reports and, in addition, upward of 1,800 decisions omitted from the State Reports. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find cases, even if cited to the State Reports only. Write for prices and full information.

Citizenship—Age—Character.

The applicant shall be 21 years of age, and shall file with his petition the certificate of the county court of the county in which he resides, stating that he is a person of honesty, probity, and good demeanor.

Application—When to be Filed.

After receipt of the certificate of the county court, the candidate shall, at least ten days before the beginning of the next regular term, file with the clerk of the circuit court of any county in a circuit court district in which the applicant does not reside, a written application for a license, addressed to the judge and accompanied by the certificate above referred to.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Fee.

The examination shall be set for some day of the current term. Each applicant shall be examined by the circuit judge and at least two lawyers in Equity Jurisprudence, Common Law, Constitutional Law, both Federal and State, Criminal Law, Torts, Real Property, Contracts, Pleading, Evidence, Negotiable Instruments, and Public and Private Corporations. If a general average of 75 per cent. is received, the license shall be issued upon the payment of the regular fees to the clerk. This license entitles the holder to practice in all the courts of the state.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

Under Acts 1902, p. 45, §§ 1-9, attorneys from other jurisdictions are not admitted without examination on presentation of certificate, as heretofore, but must comply with the same rules as are prescribed for applicants residing in the state. This act, however, does not prevent a nonresident attorney in good standing from appearing and practicing in a case in which he may be employed. Such attorneys may be admitted to practice for the time and purpose of such case by appearing in, and being introduced to, the court. No oath is administered.

Admission in Court of Appeals.

No special license is required to be admitted to practice in the Court of Appeals. It is only necessary that attorneys in good standing, residents of the state, appear in open court and take the oaths prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the commonwealth of Kentucky.

Examination — Regulations — Scope — Fee — Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations are held in the Supreme Court rooms on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday of June and December. Such examinations are principally in writing, in open court, and are strict both as to elementary principles and the Codes and practice of the state. The admission fee is $5.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

A citizen of the United States, or a resident of this state who has bona fide declared his intention of becoming a citizen, who has been admitted to practice before the highest tribunal of another state or of a foreign country where the common law exists as a basis, may be admitted here, with or without examination, in the discretion of the court, upon production of his license, together with certificates showing good moral character. A candidate for admission under this rule may make application at any time by filing a verified petition with the clerk, showing where, with whom, and for what period he studied law, where he was first admitted to practice, where and how long he has practiced, his standing in each jurisdiction, and the certificate of the presiding judge of the highest trial court in which he last practiced, showing petitioner's good moral character. If the applicant has never practiced, he shall so state and shall furnish the same evidence of good moral character that a candidate for examination is required to furnish. All papers are delivered by the clerk to the Attorney General, who, if satisfied, after an examination of the papers, that applicant is entitled to admission, will notify him when the court will hear the application. Applications under this rule are made upon motion of the Attorney General or one of his assistants, and applicant is required to be personally present in court when the motion is made.

Admission on Diploma.

A diploma from the Department of Law of the University of Montana at Missoula, or evidence of having completed the three years' law course of said department, shall entitle the holder to a license to practice law in all the courts of this state, subject to the right of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to order an examination as in ordinary cases of applicants without such diploma or evidence.

MONTANA DECISIONS.

1868 to 1915.

A complete set of Montana Reports (down to 1915) consists of 48 vols. The Pacific Reporter, 143 vols., contains all decisions subsequent to vol. 3 Montana, and all decisions for the last 32 years of California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming, and all decisions of Arizona and Oklahoma. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. Owing to the limited number of local precedents, it is necessary to go outside of Montana for case-law authorities, and the Pacific Reporter is the medium naturally chosen. Indeed, the set is usually considered indispensable in all the Pacific Coast states. This is especially true as to Montana, for the reason that the Montana Code was adapted from that of California, and the courts follow the California decisions closely. The Pacific contains about 70 per cent. of all the California decisions, including upwards of 1,800 that are not published in the State Reports. Write for price and full information.

When applying for admission to the bar, the applicant must show that he is a citizen of the United States, a resident of Nebraska, 21 years of age at the time of application, and of good moral character.

At least four weeks prior to the day set for the examinations, the applicant shall file with the clerk of the Supreme Court at Lincoln, Neb., a written request in his own handwriting, subscribed by himself, together with his personal affidavit as to the qualifications mentioned above and below. These proofs shall state, too, the time and place of preparatory study, or admission and period of practice in courts of record in another jurisdiction; and shall contain the affidavit of two reputable citizens of the applicant's own community vouching for his morality and reputation in that community, and the names and addresses of three persons, other than those certifying for him, of whom further inquiry as to his character and qualifications may be made by the board of examiners. At the time of filing application, the petitioner shall deposit with the clerk the sum of $5.

General Education—Term of Study.

Before attempting the examination, applicant must prove, either by school, college or teacher's certificate or diploma or in examination before the bar commission, that he has had preliminary education equivalent to that involved in the completion of the first three years of a high school course accredited by the state department of public instruction. He shall also satisfy the examiners by his own affidavit, and by the affidavit or certificate of his preceptor or preceptors, that he has, for a period of three years, diligently pursued his legal studies in a reputable law school or in the office of a practicing attorney, or partly in one and partly in the other. At least one year of such office study shall have been passed in a law office of this state.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Time of Holding.

Examinations will be held on the second Tuesday of June and the third Tuesday of November of each year and at such other times as the commission may deem advisable. Applicant must pass a satisfactory examination upon the principles of the common law, equity, criminal law, and the statutes and practice of the state. The method of conducting the examination is left to the discretion of the commission, consisting of five attorneys appointed by the Supreme Court each year. As soon as practicable after the conclusion of the examination, the board shall report to the court the results, and the names of the persons entitled to admission as decided by a majority of the board, which persons shall thereupon be admitted to practice upon taking the oath prescribed by law. If the applicant is disqualified, he shall not be admitted to examination for one year from the time of such failure, and until he shall have filed a certificate that he has studied law for one year since his rejection.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

law five full years under license in such state within the ten years next preceding the date of his application.

Registration at Commencement of Study.

Every person applying for admission as having studied in the office of a practicing attorney in this state must have registered with the clerk of the Supreme Court at the beginning of his term of study, giving his name, address, and the name and address of the attorney in whose office he is studying. A fee of 50 cents will be required from every applicant registered.

Law School Graduates.

Graduates from the College of Law of the State University and the Creighton College of Law shall make application and present proofs of qualifications in the same manner as required of other applicants. If otherwise satisfactory, they will be admitted without further examination.

Application—When to be Filed—Proof of Qualifications.

Applicant must file notice of his intention to apply for admission to the bar with the clerk of the circuit court of the county in which he served his clerkship, or in which he resides, two months prior to taking the examination, evidence of which fact, by certificate of said clerk of circuit court, must be filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court, Trenton, N. J., together with the other proofs mentioned hereafter, at least 20 days before the first day of the term. Proof of qualifications as to age, residence, moral character, clerkship and term of study may be supplied by certificate or affidavit, or both. Proof of general education shall be furnished by one of the means specified below.

General Education.

At least three years before taking the bar examination the applicant must have passed his final examination for graduation in a college, university, public high school, or private school approved by the Board of Examiners, evidence of which fact, by certificate or otherwise, must be submitted to and approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction before being filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court, or must have passed an equivalent examination to be held under the supervision of the Bar Examiners. These preliminary examinations are held in each county of the state on the first Friday and Saturday of February, May, and October, at the times and places at which county examinations are held for teachers' licenses. Information regarding the exact times and places may be obtained from the superintendent of schools of the respective counties. Each candidate will be examined upon ten subjects (of which Composition and Orthography must be two) that he may select from the following list: Advanced History of the United States, General History, Advanced Arithmetic, Advanced Algebra, Plane Geometry, Physiology, Grammar, Composition, Orthography, Geography, Civics, Physics, Latin, French, Bookkeeping, Business Practice. The county Board of Examiners will notify the State Superintendent of Public Instruction of those who pass the examination, whereupon the Superintendent will issue certificate of that fact to the successful candidate for presentation to the clerk of the Supreme Court, as above required.

Term of Study.

Applicant must have served a regular clerkship with a practicing attorney of the Supreme Court for three years, or must have served such clerkship for at least one year and six months, and have spent another period sufficient to make three years all together, in regular attendance upon the law lectures in some law school of established reputation in the United States. The applicant shall file with the clerk of the Supreme Court, at the commencement of the clerkship, a certificate of the attorney that the clerkship has begun.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations for attorneys and counselors are held on the first Thursday of the February, June, and November terms, at Trenton.

The topics and books on which the applicants will be examined, are published in pamphlet form by the Board of Examiners and may be obtained upon requisition to the clerk of the Supreme Court, at Trenton. This pamphlet also contains the forms required for the various certificates, proofs and notices. The examinations are written and oral, and are conducted by the Board of Examiners, consisting of three counselors appointed by the court. Board shall report to the Supreme Court the names of those candidates who passed the examination successfully.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

An attorney admitted in another state, whose clerkship and profession in that state, or in this, or in both, have been pursued for a term of three years shall be eligible to examination, upon proof of good moral character and educational qualifications, provided, that he may take the examination as to general education at any time before taking the bar examination. Regular attendance upon law lectures in a reputable law school for a period not exceeding 18 months may stand in lieu of an equal period of clerkship. In case such attorney has been actively engaged in practice in such other state for ten years, he shall not be required to take the examination as to preliminary education. Two months' notice must be given of applicant's intention to take the examination, same as prescribed for other applicants.

Admission as Counselor—Women may be Admitted.

No one shall be recommended for license to practice as a counselor until he shall have practiced as an attorney in the Supreme Court of this state for three years and given proof in examination of his legal ability, or, if he has practiced in another state, until the whole period of his practice in this and such other state shall be six years, the last year of which period must have been in this state. No application is necessary to take the counselors' examination, but 20 days' notice should be given to the clerk of the Supreme Court by those intending to take it. Women may be licensed upon complying with the prescribed requirements.

The Atlantic Reporter includes upward of 3,000 decisions that have not been and will not be published in the State Reports. Over 1,500 of the omitted decisions are from New Jersey. Regarding the value of these decisions as precedents, we quote from the report of the committee on reporting and digesting to the American Bar Association, 1898: "In New Jersey the judges and reporters have excluded or omitted from the reports 667 cases which have been published in the first 33 vols. of the Atlantic Reporter. * * * Some of them are decisions which have proved to be the controlling authorities, and have become leading cases in some branch of law or practice." He shall file his application, accompanied by proper certificate other than his own, with the secretary of the Board of Examiners at least 30 days before the date of the examination, and such application must show the date of his admission, the name of the court in which he was admitted, and the length of time he has been engaged in active practice.

Term of Study.

The candidate shall prove to the satisfaction of the Board of Examiners that he has pursued the study of law for four years, except that, if he is a graduate of any college or university, the period of study shall be three years, and except, also, that persons admitted in the highest court of original jurisdiction in another state, who have practiced in that state for three years since their admission, shall be permitted to enter upon the examination after one year of study in this state. The period of this preliminary study, on the part of applicants who are not graduates of a college or university, may be spent by serving a clerkship in the office of a practicing attorney of the Supreme Court of this state after the age of 18 has been reached, or partly in such office and partly by attending a law school of sufficient standing, but every such applicant must serve such clerkship for at least one year continuously either before examination by the Board of Examiners or after such examination and prior to admission to the bar. The computation of the time so spent in the office of an attorney shall commence at the filing with the clerk of the court of appeals of such attorney's certificate announcing the clerkship. If the applicant be a graduate of a college or university, he may pursue the prescribed course of study in the office of a practicing attorney in this state, or by attending a law school, or partly under one of these conditions and partly under the other, but the period of study must be pursued after his graduation. If he be a person admitted to the bar of another state or country, he may pursue the prescribed period of study either by serving a clerkship or by attendance upon a law school, but the period of study must be pursued after having remained as a practicing attorney in such other state or country for three years.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations are held in each department four times a year. Information regarding the exact times and places may be obtained of the secretary of the board. The test may be oral or written, or partly oral and partly written, and shall embrace questions on the subjects selected by the board. An applicant obtaining the required standard in either group and not on his entire paper will receive a pass card for the group which he passes, and may be re-examined at the end of four months, on the group in which he failed. If the board favors admission, it will so signify to the Supreme Court; but, if not, the rejected applicant shall not be allowed re-examination for four months.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

An attorney who has been admitted to practice in another state, and who has remained therein as a practicing attorney for three years, shall offer proof of such admission and pursuit of his profession, and of the prescribed period of study for one year in this state, and shall then be permitted to undergo the examination of the board. One who has been admitted to practice in the highest court of law in any state or territory of the United States or in the District of Columbia and has practiced his profession there for a period of five years, or who has been admitted and has practiced five years in another country whose jurisprudence is based upon the principles of the English common law; or who being an American citizen and domiciled in a foreign country whose jurisprudence is based on the principles of the English common law has received such diploma or degree therein as would entitle him, if a citizen of such foreign country, to practice law in its court, may, in the discretion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, be admitted here without examination, after furnishing satisfactory evidence of character and qualifications. Applicants admitted under this rule must produce a letter of recommendation from one of the judges of the highest court of such other state or country, or furnish other satisfactory evidence of character or qualifications.

1794 to 1915.

A complete set of reports of the courts of last resort in New York (down to 1915) consists of:

New York Common Law, 80 vols., 1794-1848.

New York Chancery, 32 vols., 1814-1848.

New York Appeals, 212 vols., 1847-1915.

The Northeastern Reporter, 105 vols., contains all decisions of the New York Court of Appeals subsequent to vol. 98. It also contains all decisions for the last 30 years of Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, and Ohio. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Northeastern make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume.

There have been and still are, a number of lower courts of record, and of appellate jurisdiction, such as the Supreme Court, Superior Court, Court of Common Pleas, etc. The decisions of these courts have been reported in part in a heterogeneous mass of official and unofficial reports. These are usually cited by the names of the Reporters, and are collectively classed as Supreme, Practice and Code, Superior, Common Pleas, and Criminal Reports. The tabulated list is too long to include here, but we will furnish a catalogue in which these are set forth, on request. In 1888 we commenced the publication of the New York Supplement, which now has 148 vols. In this set we have reported in full, systematically and promptly, all decisions of these inferior courts of record, including all the decisions as reported in some 425 vols. of the official and unofficial reports above referred to, and upward of 8,500 additional decisions, which have been either entirely omitted from the State Reports, or reported only as memorandum decisions. The New York Supplement is supplied with tables which make it a perfect and convenient substitute for the State Reports.

We will be pleased to quote prices and furnish full information regarding these Reporters on request.

Residence—Age—Character.

Every applicant for admission shall be a resident of the state, 21 years of age, and of good moral character, which latter fact shall be shown by affidavit of the secretary or dean of the law school he attended or the attorney in whose office he studied.

Application—Form and Contents—Fee.

Applications, on blanks furnished by the clerk of the Supreme Court, must be filed with the clerk at Bismarck as soon as possible before the date of the examination, and must contain all the proofs as to age, residence, good moral character, period of study, etc., required by the rules. If the application is for admission on motion, a fee of $3 will be paid at the time of filing; if for admission on examination, a fee of $20.

Term of Study.

Each applicant for admission must have pursued a regular course of study of the law for at least three years, either in the office of a member of the bar engaged in active practice in this state or under the direction of a judge of the Supreme Court, district court, or county court having increased jurisdiction of this state, or in some reputable law school in the United States, or partly in such office and partly in such law school. In no case will applicants be admitted to examination unless it shall appear that they have pursued a course of study equivalent to that required of candidates for graduation in the law department of the State University. It shall be the duty of attorneys in this state with whom a clerkship has begun to file with the clerk of the Supreme Court a certificate stating the date of the commencement of such clerkship, and such period shall be deemed to commence at the time of such filing.

Examinations—Regulations—Scope—Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations are held at Grand Forks on the last Tuesday in June, and at Fargo on the first Tuesday of December. The candidate shall undergo a public examination as to his legal attainments before the State Board of Bar Examiners consisting of three attorneys appointed by the Supreme Court. Such examination shall be both written and oral. The board shall report the results to the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court shall authorize the issuance of certificates of admission to those who have successfully passed the examination.

Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

The statute provides that any person who has been admitted to practice in another state, in which he has previously resided may be admitted here on written motion filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court by a member of the bar of this court, provided he has become a resident of the state. Such person shall, in the discretion of the Supreme Court, be exempt from examination and proof of study, upon proof of the qualifications as to age, residence and good moral character, and proof that the applicant has practiced law for three years in the state of his admission and is in good standing in that state. A fee of $3 shall accompany the application.

The rules of the Supreme Court provide that such written motion shall be accompanied by the applicant's certificate of admission to practice in the foreign state and his affidavit, which shall disclose the place or places where he has practiced law in such foreign state or states, the length of time he has practiced and shall show that he has been actively and continuously engaged in the practice of law at the places designated in the foreign state or states for a period of more than three years in the aggregate. He shall also give the name and postoffice address of one or more of the district or circuit judges, who have presided during said time in the court before which he has practiced, and, where possible, present the certificate of such judge showing the above facts in support of his application. His affidavit shall also disclose whether any proceedings in disbarment or suspension of his license to practice are pending against him or were pending at the time of his removal from the foreign jurisdiction, and that he is still an attorney at law in good standing in such foreign state. Applicant must also furnish the affidavits of at least two practicing attorneys of said state who were fellow practitioners, stating that he is of good moral character and a proper person to be licensed. Upon the hearing of the motion the court may orally examine the applicant as to his qualifications and his right to admission to the bar of this state.

Miscellaneous.

The Supreme Court has decided that graduates of so-called "correspondence schools" are not within the meaning of the statute, and in consequence are not entitled to admission.

In case the applicant is rejected, second examination shall be allowed upon filing a certificate that he has studied law for six months subsequent to the prior test. But examinations are restricted to five in number, and the fifth examination shall be not less than two years after the fourth, and applicant must furnish certificate that he has studied diligently during the intervening two years. The applicant is thereafter ineligible. If successful, the oath of office shall be administered before a license is granted.

Every applicant shall offer evidence, by certificate filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court, that he has passed an examination under the direction of the Secretary of Public Instruction, in a course of studies identical with or equivalent to the course prescribed for graduation in the government high schools, such as is required of graduates in those schools, or has satisfied said Secretary that before commencing the study of law he had pursued a course of studies identical with or equivalent to the course prescribed for graduation in the government high schools or the course formerly required by Spanish legislation for the degree of bachelor of arts: Provided, that the latter form of certificate will not be accepted as to any applicant who may have entered upon the last four years of his academic study later than June 30, 1910, and provided further, that no certificate issued by said Secretary of Public Instruction will be accepted unless it appears that prior to the date of its issue the fee of 30 pesos had been deposited with the clerk of the Supreme Court as required by the rules, and in the event that the certificate is based upon an examination held under the direction of the Secretary of Public Instruction, that the fee had been deposited before taking the examination.

Period of Study.

Applicants, other than those who have been admitted in the United States Supreme Court, or in any United States Circuit Court of Appeal or Circuit or District Court, or in the highest court of any state or territory in the United States, or in the courts of the Philippine Islands or of Spain or any of its dependencies during the period of Spanish sovereignty, shall prove that they have regularly and diligently studied law for three years in a law school or university, or in the office of a practicing attorney, or in a court of record. The affidavit of the candidate, accompanied by a certificate from the law school, attorney, or clerk of court under whose tuition said studies were pursued, shall be filed as proof. All persons who commence the study of law in these Islands shall register their names in the office of the clerk of court of the province in which they may pursue their studies or in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court at Manila in case they shall study in that city, and file a certificate showing that they are engaged in such study. This certificate must be filed some time during June or July of each year, and the clerks of the courts shall forward these annual certificates, after being recorded in their respective offices, to the clerk of the Supreme Court.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Time and Place of Holding.

A committee of three practicing lawyers is appointed by the Supreme Court to conduct the examinations. Such examinations shall be public, in writing, and shall be divided into three parts. The first shall consist of questions upon Civil Law, Civil Procedure, and Mercantile Law. The second shall be upon Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure and Private International Law. The third shall consist exclusively of drawing judgments, orders, complaints, answers, and briefs for defense and prosecution. The questions for the first two exercises shall be the same for all applicants. Applicant may be provided with an English translation of the questions and may write out his answers in English, which shall be subsequently translated into Spanish by the official translator. The time between each of the three exercises shall not exceed six days. No person who has not successfully passed an exercise shall be permitted to be examined in subsequent exercises. Applicants may be examined orally, if the committee deems it necessary. A grade of 75 per cent. in each one of the three exercises shall be required in order to successfully pass the examination. An applicant who has failed three times will not be permitted to take a fourth examination until the expiration of three full years from the date of his last failure, and then only on the production at least 15 days before the date set for the examination, of evidence of good moral character and proof that he has pursued such further and extended studies of the law in the meantime as to justify the belief that he is duly qualified for admission to the bar, provided, that an applicant presenting himself for a second, third, fourth or any subsequent examination will receive no credit on account of any exercise which he may have passed at a former examination, but must take a new examination in all the exercises. The successful candidate shall be admitted in open court on motion of the committee, on the day following the announcement of the result. No additional fee is required upon being admitted to practice.

Examinations are held at Manila on the third Monday in August.

Such attorney shall exhibit license evidencing the fact of his admission, together with evidence that he is in good standing in such foreign state or territory. In case of failure to pass the examination, he may be admitted to subsequent examinations as explained above, under heading "Examination." The usual fee is required, and will be returned in case applicant fails to pass the examination.

RHODE ISLAND DECISIONS.

The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Atlantic make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The petition, verified by oath of the applicant, shall be directed to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, Cheyenne, Wyo., and shall be referred to the State Board of Law Examiners. Such petition shall contain statements as to applicant's full name, place and date of birth, and, if foreign born, the facts showing that he is a citizen of the United States, the places and periods of residence and occupation during the last preceding five years, and names and addresses of five persons acquainted with the applicant during said period. The petition shall also contain statements as to petitioner's educational advantages, exclusive of legal studies, where, when, for how long, and under whose supervision legal studies have been pursued, and the works read in the course of such legal studies. The petitioner shall also state the place at which he prefers to be examined, and, if at some place other than the capital, the reason therefor. Application must be accompanied by a fee of $15, which shall entitle the candidate to two examinations, and no more; the second being applied for not later than one year after the first.

General Education.

Although no certain degree of preliminary education is required, the rules direct that the applicant shall state in his petition the extent of the same.

Term of Study.

The candidate shall have studied law at least three years, either in or under the supervision of a law school in the United States, or under the supervision of a practicing attorney or judge of this state, or partly under one system and partly under the other; and the petition shall show where and with whom such legal studies have been pursued and the works read in the course of study.

Examination—Regulations—Scope—Time and Place of Holding.

Examinations are held at the capital on the second day of each regular term of the Supreme Court, and at such other times as may be deemed necessary by the Board of Examiners, consisting of five members of the bar. Such examinations shall be upon written questions prepared by said board, and may be conducted by one or more examiners, or the district judge in the district or county of applicant's residence, or some person selected by the board. The questions and answers shall be returned to the board, who shall report its findings thereon to the Supreme Court. If the petitioner's abilities are sufficient, a license shall be awarded by the court, and the oath of attorney administered.

Admissions of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions.

An attorney who has been regularly admitted to practice in the highest court of another state or territory may, in the discretion of the court, be admitted in this state without examination on proof of such admission and good moral character, which last shall be certified to by a judge or two or more attorneys for such other state or territory, or a member of the bar of this state. The petition shall show the place or places where applicant has practiced law in such other state and the period of practice in each place; whether applicant has been admitted in more than one state or territory, and, if so, the name of each state or territory, together with the dates of admission as near as possible; also the period of practice and places of residence in each such state or territory. The petition must also be accompanied by the names and addresses of five persons, preferably judges or members of the bar, of such other state or territory. The admission fee is $10.

Miscellaneous.

Whenever it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that it will be a hardship, owing to distance, expense, or otherwise, for applicant to attend upon a session of the board at the capital, the examination may be conducted in the district or county where the applicant resides, by the district judge or some other competent person to be selected by the board.

WYOMING DECISIONS.

1870 to 1915.

A complete set of Wyoming Reports (down to 1915) consists of 20 vols. All decisions of Wyoming subsequent to vol. 2 are reported in the Pacific Reporter, 143 vols. The set also contains all decisions for the last 32 years of California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, and Washington, and all of Arizona and Oklahoma. The tables of cross-citations furnished with the Pacific make it a simple matter to find the cases, even if cited by the State Report page and volume. The set costs about one-sixth as much as the corresponding State Reports. The limited quantity of local case law makes reference to the decisions of other jurisdictions as precedents necessary, and the Pacific Reporter, containing, as it does, the decisions of the neighboring states, is the natural selection. Indeed, the set is regarded as a necessity in all the Western states. Write for price and complete information.

Reports and Digests as Needed in a Private Law Library.

REPORTS AND REPORTERS.

Judge Dillon says in his work on the Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America: "The law, as a result of the ever-occurring changes in the condition of society and in legislation, is constantly changing. The old is, to a great extent, so well settled and known as to have become elementary and indisputable. It is the new that is unknown, and needs interpretation and definition. And as between the old reports and the new, the experience of every lawyer and judge is, I think, to the effect that the new are the most useful because the most needed."

The current supreme court decisions of all the states are published in two editions. In each state the local reports are published as a local series under the auspices of the state. This is commonly known as the "official edition." The current decisions of each state are also published in seven Reporters, making up the National Reporter System. In the Reporters the cases are published first in weekly advance sheets, which are afterwards replaced by bound volumes for permanent use.

In building up a library of reports, three considerations should be borne in mind: To obtain the books most useful; to buy in such a manner that subsequent purchases will not duplicate the first; and to obtain the books with the smallest expenditure possible. The National Reporter System fulfills all these requirements. The National Reporter System contains the late cases, and it is far better to buy a set of the Reporter System, and thus obtain the later decisions of the whole country back to a given point, than to buy the entire reports of any one state, the early volumes of which contain little that has not been affirmed in the later reports, or that is not obsolete or so well settled as to be indisputable. The one exception to this rule is in favor of the decisions of one's own state. The set a lawyer first buys is generally that containing the supreme court decisions of his own state, and, as he wishes to increase his library, he can add other reports as he is prepared to do so. If he wishes the reports of any state in full, he can buy the early volumes to the date when their publication commences in the Reporter System at a material saving over the cost of an entire set. The difference in cost between buying the official reports and obtaining the same cases in the Reporter System is well illustrated in the Northeastern Reporter.

The Northeastern Reporter, volumes 1 to 106, contains all the opinions reported in 524 volumes of the Reports of Massachusetts, the New York Court of Appeals, Ohio, Indiana Supreme Court, Indiana Appellate Court, and Illinois Supreme Court. The price of the Northeastern, volumes 1 to 106, is $245.00. The price of the corresponding state reports is $1,231.25. This price is that at which the state reports are sold outside of the particular state. In some of the states a lower price is made to attorneys within the state. But compare this price with that of the Northeastern. The saving is enough to buy a whole law library of digests, text-books and local practice books.

While the National Reporter System was begun in 1879 with the Northwestern and extended to cover the entire country by 1887, it now contains more than one-half of the total number of decisions handed down by the courts of last resort of the country. This, moreover, is the later and therefore the more valuable half, as is demonstrated by the passage quoted by Judge Dillon in the opening paragraph of this article.

For further information on this matter of Reports and Reporters send for our booklet entitled, "A Lawyer's Choice of Reports," which we will be pleased to send you with our compliments.

DIGESTS OF REPORTS.

Few lawyers beginning the practice are able to buy all of the reports which they would like to have. It is no less necessary, however, to consult them constantly. The American Digest System is an adequate substitute and can be used effectively until the lawyer is prepared to increase his library by the addition of other sets of reports. A digest is a compendium, topically arranged, of the holdings set out in the opinions. In other words, it is a boiled down, concentrated extract of the opinions. Putting it in another way: Granting that it is impossible for the lawyer to have all of the reports of all the states, he would have a very effective working library if he could have an edition of reports which contained the headnotes only. If such an edition existed for the reports of all of the states, and these headnotes were arranged topically rather than by cases, he would have simply a digest. This is what has been done in the case of the American Digest System. The Century Digest covers, topically arranged, all of the decisions from 1658 to 1896. The Decennial Digest covers the decisions from 1897 to 1906, and the American Digest, Key-Number Series, the decisions subsequent to 1906. These Digests are arranged on the American Digest Classification which is everywhere recognized as the standard, being not only used in all of the West Publishing Company's digests and indexes but by the authors of many text-books and reports.

With the American Digest System the lawyer can ascertain without leaving his office what the exact holding is in any case to which he has been referred. This is done through the Complete Table of American Cases which is part of the set. If he has no case in point, but desires to investigate the authorities on the question at hand, by consulting the digest topic, or through the Descriptive Word Index, he can secure a complete brief of all the authorities in point. After this preliminary work of listing the cases has been done he can then go to the law library or to the library of some other attorney to read those opinions which bear most directly on his case. If the lawyer cannot secure access to any desired opinion and that opinion has been reported in the National Reporter System he can obtain a copy from the publishers for twenty-five cents. Typewritten copies of decisions prior to the Reporter System can also be had at small cost.

The great advantage of having the entire case law of the United States arranged on a uniform classification plan is very evident. For instance, the scheme of classification in the local digest of the State Reports and of the indexes in these reports is never the same. If a lawyer commences his investigation by examining the decisions in the Massachusetts Reports he has to spend some time in learning the classification used in that state. If he next turns to the New York Reports or a digest of these reports he finds the scheme of classification different and more time must be spent in mastering this new arrangement. On the other hand the classification scheme of the American Digest System is uniform and the Key-Number System of uniform section numbers in the Key-Number Digests enables him to turn directly from one digest to the other.

Until the lawyer can have in his office the reports which he needs, the American Digest System is the greatest aid to using those to which he has access elsewhere. Furthermore, the digest paragraphs are in themselves so full that reference to the reports will in most cases be found unnecessary.

The Purpose of a Digest

When the lawyer learns from his client the history of the transaction regarding which his aid is sought, he usually analyzes the statement, reducing it to its lowest terms, and knows in a general way the legal principle the facts involve. To merely recognize a general principle, however, is insufficient in his work as a practicing lawyer. For example, suppose the facts related involve the rule, "General appearance waives defect in process." To know of this general rule is not enough. He must know what acts of the parties constitute a general appearance, and must learn how courts have applied the rule to like facts. So, to be fully equipped to serve his client, he must know where and how to find the precedents showing such application.

A general rule or principle of law, like general expressions regarding lay matters, implies nothing certain, nothing specific, and can only be construed generally.

The application of the principle to the facts of the case is generally the only difficulty. The principle itself is fixed and well understood, while a small circumstance attending an act may change the application. So a knowledge of the law is to a great degree a knowledge of precedents. In fact, the main use of authorities or decided cases is the recognition of some principle and its application to the particular facts involved, which the court can follow out in deciding the question before it.

It is cases showing the application of the legal principle, and not the principle itself, which the courts of to-day most demand.

Therefore it is not in search for the principles of law the practicing lawyer spends so much time, but to find cases showing how the principles have been applied ; and in his search for them he must use the facts as a guide, because the application arises out of the facts, and not vice versa.

Legal publications coming under the category of text-books and books of like nature deal with the law in a general way and are confined largely to abstract statements of principles, and to these the author appends citations to the authorities to which he refers ; but it is impossible to tell, without reference to a Digest or the authorities themselves, to what extent or in what particular way the cases cited support the proposition in the text. Text-books and encyclopædias do not give the facts in each case, and therefore cannot show the particular application of the principle involved.

If the lawyer needs to refresh his memory regarding a principle of law, however, then he should resort to text-books and encyclopædias as a valuable aid ; but, if he desires to know how the principle has been applied to particular facts, he should resort to Digests, which, if properly constructed, give in concrete form the essential facts and show the application or holding of the court in each case.

It does not suffice the lawyer in his particular case to learn : "The right to defend one's self continues as long as an unjust attack." This principle existed long before courts expressed it. What he wants to learn regarding his case in hand is : Have such acts of parties as he is prepared to show been construed by any courts to be "an unjust attack" ? Are there any precedents ? And to learn this with certainty he must resort to Digests, which give the facts.

There have been nearly 3,000,000 points of law decided by courts of the United States. These have been collected and systematically arranged in 412 digest groups, which are well known subjects in law. Ordinarily, to determine the particular subject where a desired point of law has been placed is easy or not, according as the searcher happens to reason from the same point of view as the editor or author who places it; and this is necessarily so when using either digests, encyclopædias, or text-books. The following pages show how this difficulty is materially lessened by using the Descriptive Word Index, which points the searcher to the particular subject or topic in which the case in point is placed, and aids him in getting a start, by merely using words descriptive of the facts in his case.

DESCRIPTIVE WORD INDEX.

The Descriptive Word Index is a compilation of titles, under which are references directing the reader to the various topics and sections in the Decennial Digest. These titles are words descriptive of essential facts which have constituted the several elements of the right of action or defense in decided cases. Many of these titles are words that describe the names of persons, places, and physical things which have been the subject of dispute. Some of them are words that describe a question of law or of fact not directly involving any particular person or thing, but going to particular questions of law and procedure which have been the subjects of dispute, and some of these titles are words that describe a constitutional provision, a legislative act, or a legal doctrine which has been the subject of dispute.

The Descriptive Word Index will aid the searcher when he finds difficulty in getting a start toward finding authorities in point.

When used in connection with Key-Number Digests, it aids in locating the topic and section where the essential facts similar to the facts of the case in hand are digested.

When used in connection with cyclopedias having the American Digest Classification, it aids in locating the topic (not the section) where the general rule involving such facts is stated.

In addition to the many thousand cross-reference titles, and the several hundred thousand cross-reference lines thereunder, the Descriptive Word Index includes every subject or topic title used in Key-Number Digests and every section line under such titles.

The arrangement of the section lines under the titles in the Index, however, is alphabetical, instead of analytical, as in the Digest. Containing all such titles and lines, therefore, it can be used as a complete index to all cases in the Decennial Digest, without regard to the general digest classification.

There are times, also, when those familiar with the classification of the American Digest System, and able analytically to determine the topic under which their desired authorities fall, will get material help from the Descriptive Word Index, where the topic to be examined contains a great many cases and the analysis is correspondingly long.

E. g.: "In an action by a corporation against its officers to recover profits," you desire authorities.

You are morally sure they are to be found under the topic Corporations but just where requires time to search, and in such a live topic the number of varied cases necessitates a rather long analysis; hence, if pressed for time, turn to the cross-reference title Profits in the Descriptive Word Index, and under it will be indicated the exact section, to wit, 319 (1), topic Corporations where such cases are placed.

West Publishing Co. St. Paul

A Key-Number Guide to all the Authorities.

A new device which effectually and finally solves the "case law problem."

Original—Exclusive—Revolutionary

Your
problem.

The practitioner's case law problem, which is always with him, is to find from the 700,000 reported cases the authorities directly applicable to the particular legal questions in hand.

Our
problem.

The case law problem for the law publisher is to help the practitioner to find these few authorities from the many, most readily, most easily, and most exhaustively.

Both solved.

Both problems are now solved by a new device we have worked out for making the wealth of the American Digest System available in connection with the Reporter System, producing what is in effect a system of universal and specific annotations.

Now first possible.

This scheme was never possible before, because the material was not available until the American Digest System was perfected.

All the past decisions
classified.

In the American Digest System, the points of law in the 700,000 reported cases are extracted, carefully formulated, and arranged in 112,000 groups, each one of which forms, in effect, a specific "note" or collection of the authorities on some particular point of law.

And now
the current decisions
also.

The classification followed in the Digest System is now extended to the Reporter System. Every point in every new decision is classified by experts for the American Digest System before it is published in the Reporters. Its place in the Digest classification is then editorially indicated by the Key-Number section, adopted in connection with the Decennial and the current American Digests. This Key-Number Annotation is now invariably affixed to every Reporter headnote.

The
number.

The key number thus works backwards and forwards, making the American Digest annotations perpetual, receiving from day to day the new authorities as they come from the courts, and making them instantly accessible to the searcher through the talismanic number.

The future cases.

No other system can possibly accomplish this. No other form of annotations made to-day can carry with them an unerring reference forward through the reports and digests to all future cases in point.

How to use the annotations.

Since these "Universal Annotations" cover all points of law and include all the authorities, past, present and future, the only remaining question is how to find the annotations which are desired at any given time out of the 112,000. This is accomplished readily and effectively in three ways:

First
way.

1. Through the topical American Digest classification with the aid of the cross-references, and by the descriptive word method. (A "bill of particulars" will be furnished on request.) By this means, the digest annotations can be quickly found by their subject-matter.

Second
way.

2. Through the Table of Cases published in connection with the Decennial Digest. Any single case becomes "the key to all cases in point." The title of the known case in the Table leads the searcher directly to the "section" in the Century or Decennial Digest from which earlier and later cases in point can be traced mechanically by following the references.

Third
way.

3. Through the annotations in the National Reporter System. For the past ten years, the Reporters have been annotated by references to the Century Digest. From November, 1908, they have been annotated with the key number of the Decennial Digest, as described above. Every reported case will thus be directly and immediately connected with all the pertinent annotations throughout the entire American Digest System.

In a word: The Reporter System will henceforth add to all the other points of superiority of its service this supreme advantage: Every point in every case will be keyed to the American Digest System, connected automatically and immediately by a simple and positive annotation with all past and future decisions on the same point.

What more can be desired. All the authorities classified and arranged in that great storehouse, the American Digest System.

Each new case annotated to all the authorities (past and future) at the time it is reported.

And all with no increase in cost. This new feature is added to the Reporters without increasing the cost to subscribers by one cent. We simply want you to understand it and use it.

If from the market value of a commodity at destination the freight to that point, added to the cost of converting the commodity into cash, be deducted, the resulting balance will show with reasonable certainty the value of the commodity at the point from which the shipment moved.

The Science of Brief Making

Hon. Horace E. Deemer, of the Supreme Court of Iowa, says:—

“Brief making is an art in which there are few masters. I have been amazed at the helplessness of law students, and even of lawyers when they go into a library to search for authorities. A good lawyer is one who knows where to look for the law; and after he has found it knows what to do with it. Law schools should teach their students how to do these things.”

Hon. John H. Stiness, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, says:—

“One who does not know where and how to find the law will not know the law. One who cannot state his points in a clear and orderly way will fail to make an impression and to give the aid he desires. Brief making, therefore, is a most essential and practical accomplishment for a lawyer. Special instruction in brief making is both desirable and important.”

The need of a text-book serving as a guide to students and young lawyers in the investigation of authorities, showing the proper way of using the decisions and statutes, explaining the purpose, relative value, and utility of the different classes of law books, the best way to search out what may be wanted from the bewildering mass of legal publications, and how to use the matter at hand properly and effectively in preparing brief or argument, has been apparent for years.

By the co-operation of a number of the best writers that could be secured, each experienced in his particular branch of the work, it became possible to publish a book of this kind that would be of practical use for law students and law school instruction.

The New Edition of Cooley's Brief Making and the Use of Law Books

This book has been entirely rewritten and enlarged. The purpose of the work is to give the lawyer, law clerk and law student a thorough working knowledge of the use of law books, of how to analyze and select authorities and of the making of briefs. For this reason a "Reference Book" which contains specimen pages from every class of law books, taken from all important legal publications, and illustrating most of the essential points explained in the text of Brief Making, has been prepared and is included without extra charge in the purchase price of the work on Brief Making.

The "Hornbook Plan"

Is to set forth the leading principles in black-letter (like this).

And to give the necessary amplification, explanation, application, etc., under the principles, in type like this. The authorities are grouped in footnotes at the bottom of the page.*

This shows why these books are found so serviceable as practitioners' handbooks. A lawyer may want to be reminded of the law; in that case he wants it presented in such a way that he can pick out what he needs with the least trouble.

*The Hornbook Series now includes treatises on Agency, Admiralty, Bailments, Banks and Banking, Bills and Notes, Common-Law Pleading, Constitutional Law, Contracts, Corporations, Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, Damages, Elementary Law, Equity Jurisprudence, Equity Pleading, Evidence, Executors and Administrators, Federal Jurisdiction and Procedure, Insurance, International Law, Interpretation of Laws, Judicial Precedents, Mining Law, Municipal Corporations, Negligence, Partnership, Persons and Domestic Relations, Public Corporations, Real Property, Sales, Suretyship and Guaranty, Torts, and Wills.

The Hornbook Series.

The Hornbooks form a series of separate elementary textbooks on the principal divisions of the law, and are designed for the use of both the law student and the practitioner. Every volume is a complete treatise in itself, and all are built upon the same general plan, in which certain special and original features are made prominent.

These distinguishing features are:

(1) The black-letter text, in numbered paragraphs, which in itself constitutes a complete synopsis of the law of the subject. This text is distinguished typographically from the subsidiary text by being printed in large type. It runs through the book, forming an outline or framework of the subject which is of particular value to the law student for the purposes of review.

(2) The subsidiary text or commentary, which consists of a more extended presentation and discussion of the principles in the preceding black-letter text. This commentary follows every black-letter paragraph or group of paragraphs, is printed in ordinary type, and comprises the body of the book. The typographical separation of these two parts enables the student to obtain, in the first place, a general, comprehensive grasp of the subject as a whole, and of the relation of one part to another, and, by re-reading in connection with the more extended commentary, to fix the details clearly in mind.

(3) The notes and authorities, which consist of additional explanations and illustrations of the text, referring the student to all the leading and late cases where the principles have been discussed and applied.

(4) Uniformity in plan, form, and price.

As to the Price.

It was a good deal of an experiment to fix the price of these text-books at $3.75, including delivery charges. They were to be regular octavo text-books, and the experience of publishers has been that the uncertainties of the market with a new book could be safely met only by making the price $5 or $6. Of course, if a large circulation were assured in advance, the publishers would be warranted in coming nearer to the mark which lawyers would like to fix. Just there was the problem. We determined to meet it by taking the circulation for granted, fixing the low price, and then making the books so irresistible that the circulation would have to come.

Authors and Editors.

The authors have been very carefully selected, with a view to their special fitness for handling the particular subject intrusted to them. No one of them has been chosen simply because of a name. Some of them have already established reputations as writers, some have won their literary reputations with these books, but in all cases their work has undergone the most critical examination in our editorial corps, their citations being verified, and, when necessary, their work revised, to make it conform to the severe standard of this Series. If, after publication, criticism shows any weak places, a new edition is promptly brought out. All this lessens the chances which a purchaser takes in buying an isolated book. Here the publishers' responsibility has not been confined to the paper and press work.

On Approval.

We sell our text-books, including the Hornbook Series, subject to examination for 30 days. We want our customers to be satisfied. We believe they like to judge from the book itself, rather than from the most honest circular. We know our books bear testing. We are well satisfied with the results of this plan of selling; and so, apparently, are our customers.

Hornbook Case Series

The object of this new set of casebooks, known as the Hornbook Case Series, is to illustrate the principles of law as set forth and discussed in the volumes of the Hornbook Series. The text-book sets forth in a clear and concise manner the principles of the subject; the casebook shows how these principles have been applied by the courts and embodied in the case law. With instruction and study along these lines, the student should secure a fundamental knowledge and grasp of the subject. The cases on a particular subject are sufficiently numerous and varied to cover the main underlying principles and essentials. When used for classroom work it should be remembered that the basis of the instruction is the text-book, and that the purpose of these casebooks is to illustrate the practical application of the principles of the law. These casebooks will be sold at the uniform price, $2.50 per copy.

Owen's Law Quizzer

(Fourth Edition 1914)

By WILBER A. OWEN, LL. M.

Of the Ohio Bar

THIS is a systematic review of the fundamental principles underlying twenty-seven of the most important legal subjects, by means of 3,000 carefully planned Questions and Answers. It is intended primarily for the use of law students in review work, and in preparing for examination for degrees in law colleges, or for admission to the bar, but is also serviceable to the lawyer who wants to refresh his mind as to the exact scope and bearing of some legal principle.

A full and detailed index makes reference easy.

Frequently questions involving abstract legal principles come to an attorney's mind while at home evenings, away from his library. If deferred till the next day, they are apt to be forgotten or crowded aside. With Owen's Quizzer in the house, however, it is easy to get at once a concise statement of the principles involved, and to fix a clear idea of the point in mind.

3,000 Questions and Answers

THE first edition of Owen's Law Quizzer was published some years ago and at once proved its usefulness and popularity. It has now been revised and enlarged by the author, seven chapters rewritten, and references inserted to the volumes of the Hornbook Series covering the same subjects.

Covering in a thorough and systematic manner all of the fundamental and underlying principles of the following twenty-nine legal subjects:

Agency.	Jurisdiction of United States
Bailments.	Courts.
Brief Making.	Legal Ethics.
Constitutional Law.	Municipal Corporations.
Contracts.	Negligence.

Black's New Law Dictionary in One Volume

Professor Frank Irvine

Dean of the College of Law, Cornell University, says

"I have found the first edition of Black the most satisfactory of all the law dictionaries, and I have examined the second edition sufficiently to assure myself that it is a great improvement over the first. Indeed, as a law dictionary, it seems to me ideal. The definitions are concise and precise, and the temptation to embrace text-book and cyclopedic features has been carefully avoided. One volume is thus made to include all that ought to be in a dictionary by excluding what ought not to be there."

Nearly 50 per cent. new matter is added, but the work is still in one volume, and still $6.00

Warning!

Beware of Text-Books which do not cite the Reporters

They may be unreliable

Because they do not cite the latest cases—the state reports in many states are so far behind that the latest cases can only be secured through the Reporters

They are inconvenient

Because they refer you to reports to which you may not have access, without telling you that the case is also found in Reporters to which you may have access

Insist on parallel citations to the Reporters and other standard reports
